We are many bodies, but one mind, making a difference in the lives of the people of the Far Southside of Chicago.

Our vision is the Far Southside of Chicago will be a region:

- Bridging the gaps and building widespread intergenerational communication and collaboration.
- Unifying through equity and having scalable systems to measure outcomes of accountability and justice towards transformation.
- Building new, healthy, sustainable family entertainment with thriving, viable business districts that are family-focused and safe.
- Promoting diverse learning opportunities, training programs and life skills, work-study, and improving and sustaining traditional and non-traditional options.
- Preserving and cultivating community and cultural pride by improving visibility and unity across the Far South region.
- Beautifying and creating more awareness around green space, clean energy through the pride of ownership, and introductions to green economies and digital currency.
- Circulating and recycling the community dollar in the Far South Chicago's Ethnic Wall Street by supporting each other economically.
- Building career opportunities and encouraging entrepreneurship through the collaboration of workforce agencies in the Far South.
- Enhancing community empowerment of all community members through activities like homeownership and improved housing opportunities.
- Removing the mental health stigma and supporting self-care and caring for each other, especially our children in the legislative system.

We deserve the best

The Far Southside of Chicago is a vast up and coming area, comprised of diverse, caring community leaders, businesses, green energy/technology companies, faith leaders, organizations, schools, and residents (young and old), who are working together to revitalize, develop, and create a thriving community of neighborhoods that are economically, physically, culturally, educationally, financially productive, successful, and safe for all those with a stake in the community.

The Far Southside of Chicago comprises historic communities that have undergone massive transitions over the years. The Far South Chicago Coalition identified an entire region and gathered meaningful parties to create the largest Quality-of-Life plan area LISC Chicago has ever focused on to assist coordination. COVID-19 has shed a brighter light on the worsening Black life-expectancy gap in Chicago.

With these factors at the forefront towards sustainable transformation, the strategies provided by the community address the necessary actions needed.

Keep up with us

This plan will be updated regularly as we implement the vision and strategies you see below and form more detailed action plans. Check back often, but the best way to stay up to date is to join us. We welcome all Far South residents and partners from within and beyond our communities who can help move forward this vision to join a committee. For more visit farsouthcc.org, email info@farsouthcc.org or call 773-627-4829 to get involved.

OUR COMMUNITY

Bounded by 95th Street on the north, the City limits on the south, the Bishop Ford Expressway on the east, and I-57 on the west. The Far South Quality-of-life plan includes a focus on the following communities: Roseland, Altgeld Gardens, Calumet Heights, Cottage Grove Heights, Fernwood, Golden Gates, London Towne, Morgan Park, Pullman, Roseland Heights, Rosemoor, Washington Heights, and West Pullman.

Our Physical Assets and Landscapes: Natural Assets

The beauty of the natural assets of the Far Southside is unparalleled. From the Cal-Sag River and Channel "Calumet-Saganashkee Channel", which historically was a part of the underground railroad, that slaves used in their attempt to escape to freedom, to the Major Taylor Bike Trail named after legendary African American cyclist Marshall "Major" Taylor, part of the Cook County Forest Preserve's Dan Ryan Woods and the Chicago Park District, there is something to engage the residents as well as anyone wishing to explore the treasures that nature has to offer.

Park Districts and Community Centers

Several special park districts and community centers are located on the Far Southside that offers residents access to playgrounds, indoor and outdoor sports fields, basketball courts, educational programming, and computer learning, and shared space for community gatherings. Places to relax, play sports, host parties, connect with friends, and do so much more.

National APR Pullman Porter Museum & Pullman Visitor Center

Asa Philip Randolph and Pullman Porters were the men who made up the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (BSCP) union. Randolph was the chief organizer and co-founder of the BSCP, the first African-American labor union in the country to win a collective bargaining agreement. Under Randolph's leadership, the Pullman Porters fought a courageous battle for employment equality with the corporate giant, the Pullman Rail Car Company. The museum and the visitor center (information center) are a rich legacy for the community and the city.

Transit and Highways

The Far Southside of Chicago connects drivers and transit riders to the rest of the city through the Bishop Ford Freeway, a network of bus routes, the CTA Red Line train station. Plans are being developed to expand the Red Line, adding four more stops to the line increasing accessibility to and from the Far Southside. The proposed plan includes a stop at 103rd, 111th, Michigan Avenue and 130th Street.

Our Assets: The People of the Far Southside

The individual assets and gifts of the Far Southside are the people that are a very diverse and multi-faceted mix of individuals, families, businesses, and organizations.

Our Cultural Assets: What We Do That Expresses Who We Are

The Far Southside is rich in unique cultural assets and traditions that magnify and define its importance to the community and the city. Far too many to list, these events honor the legacy of individuals who have positively impacted the community. They foster neighborhood pride and work together with our families and all the communities within our geographic area. Through fun, entertainment, and even educational activities that stabilize the community, these relationships unite, strengthen, and empower individuals and families to excel and improve their lives.

Our Local Economy: How We Exchange Goods, Services and Labor

Once known for its bustling business corridor on Michigan Ave, the area has been dramatically declining, but a new renewal era is rising. Resident business ownership and larger chain and retail businesses are bringing a revival to the site. Our roots stretch from long-time business staples such as Richard's Super Premium Ice Cream and Old Fashioned Doughnuts, which have city-wide acclaim. Our economic picture is changing, generating produce with Dutch Farms, Gotham Greens, Method Soap Factory, and newer businesses such as One Eleven Food Hall and Amazon. This transition is fueled by our community-driven and city projects such as Invest South West and the Chicago Neighborhood Initiative, to name a few.

The Far South Performing & Culinary Arts Business Incubator will be the first of its kind. We envision a state-of-the-art center for both entertainment and learning on the Far Southside. Highlighting both are local entrepreneurs to gain skills in both hospitality and business management. The West Pullman Culinary and Performing Arts Incubator will be a beacon and destination for the community offering continuing education courses and skill-building opportunities.

The Planning Process

This plan builds on and strengthens the relationships in the Far Southside of Chicago. In January of 2020, over 80 people representing agencies, businesses and individual residents of the communities met to form what became the Far South Chicago Coalition (FSCC). FSCC convened this planning process through a difficult two years of worldwide pandemic, but persevered to engage our community in every way we could because this united vision is more important than ever.

The Far South Chicago Coalition joined with LISC Chicago in the summer of 2020 to begin engagement towards the first-ever Quality-of-Life Plan on the Far Southside. FSCC and its members and partners hosted dozens of events through the Fall and into 2021, both in-person and virtual. In early 2021, FSCC completed its About Our Community report summarizing the assets and opportunities this preliminary work surface and began sharing this across the community. With a strong and diverse advisory committee of 26 leaders and stakeholders from the many communities that make up the Far South, FSCC and LISC agreed to proceed into planning together and confirmed Phalanx Family Services as the convening agency stewarding the effort. The advisory committee members all engaged the networks they represent across the community, and FSCC undertook a series of community meetings residents could attend in person or virtually over the course of six months. These events, intentionally located across the Far South region, engaged hundreds of community residents who gave feedback and shared their passions and visions. Many of those who attended joined in the effort and this plan represents these many viewpoints on where we as a community intend to focus our collective work.

But this is a living document. We will continue updating our action plans and supplementing this plan as needed based on the collective vision we've created together.

FSCC, Phalanx and LISC thank the major funders of the 2020-2021 Quality-of-Life Planning process:
